PROGRAM SYNOPSIS

Bill, a middle-aged man, returns home, after many years, seeking to recover the life he lost after cheating on his estranged wife, Susie.

FULL SYNOPSIS

Bill is a man determined to challenge the Thomas Wofle axiom "You Can"t Go Home Again" Home is all that Bill wants. He wants to go home, back to the place where he and his wife Susie once found happiness together. But Bill and Susie have unfinished business. After many years he does finally return, but it isn't the homecoming he was expecting. Insead of a happy reunion, he is confronted with an angry and bitter Susie who wants nothing to do with him. Bill wants to forget about the mistakes he has made in life - mistakes that Susie can't seem to forget or forgive.

Despite their troubled past history, however, some love has endured between the pair. They sit and talk, sharing some cherished memories and begin to draw closer once again. But will it be enough when Bill's mistake once again takes center stage? Susie must decide to cling to her bitterness, hatred and regret or forgive Bill and offer him the redemption he seeks.

It is a simple story. Boy meets girl. They fall in love. Boy hurts girl and they break up. Girl forgives boy and they get back together.

Enduring love, regret, and the power of forgiveness often makes for happy endings.
